

National Landscapes Platform

The National Landscapes Network's collaboration platform

Welcome!

Please note, the platform is currently only open to staff at National Landscape Partnerships and Conservation Boards and a very few external users working on collaborative projects. We intend to open the registration wider as the platform develops.

What is the National Landscapes Platform?

Our National Landscapes Platform is a space for collaborative working across the national network of teams responsible for looking after our National Landscapes (approximately 400 users from across the UK). The platform provides a set of online tools to allow us to work together more effectively. These tools include, but are not necessarily limited to, the following.

- A variety of Forums where users can discuss topics, as well as a few smaller, more private, forums for specific project work
- A searchable Contact Directory, to provide additional networking with colleagues nationally - users are able to search for people with specific expertise and for those who are open for collaborative activity (from ad hoc advice to project work)
- A searchable Resource Library where users can share and discover files of all sorts (documents, images, maps...)
- A News page where users can read all the latest updates from across the network (curated by National Landscape comms officers), as well as national updates from the National Landscapes Association.
- A collection of collaborative hubs, to centralise useful information and resources for each strategic theme topic.

- And, customisable settings for email notifications, including a weekly digest of recent activity - to cut down on unwanted pressure on email inboxes!
